ITINERARY

Day 1: Bergen

Arrive in Bergen and transfer to your hotel. Bergen is called 'the city between seven mountains' because of the many mountains surrounding it. At 624 metres, Mount Ulriken is the tallest of them. Bergen was one of the major hanseatic cities in Europe and it has been a great centre of trade throughout the ages. Fish was exported from Bergen, while grain was the main import. The first German merchants came to the city already in 1270, and the powerful Hanseatic League existed until 1784, when it was disbanded. The Hanseatic merchants operated in the Bryggen area, which is now included on UNESCO's World Heritage List.

Day 2: Bergen - Balestrand

Today, depart from Bergen and set course towards Balestrand by boat. You are going to sail along the fjord of dreams located on the west coast of Norway. Under the arrival at Balestrand you will have a view of the stunning Kviknes Hotel. This is where you will be staying for the next two nights. A 3 course dinner or buffet will be served at the hotel.

Day 3: Fjærland Fjord & Glaciers

Today, you will go on a tour to the Fjærland Fjord & Glaciers. In the morning walk to the pier, next to the hotel, for a cruise along the Fjærland Fjord, which is a 30 km long branch of the Sognefjord. Take the 1 -2 hours boat from Balestrand to Fjærland. Arrive in Fjærland and depart by the glacier bus: First stop is the Norwegian Glacier Museum, which reveals many details about the flowing ice and how it has sculpted the landscape, the fjords and mountains. Also included is a stunning multi-screen presentation on Jostedalsbreen, the largest glacier on the European continent (474 km²). Second and third stop is the Supphellebreen Glacier and the Bøyabreen Glacier: The glaciers - Supphellebreen and Bøyabreen - come down to the valley floor in Fjærland, and they are both branches of Jostedalsbreen. The ice in the ice falls of the glaciers is gliding down the mountain side with a speed of 2 meters per day - among the fastest in Norway. Supphellebreen, at an elevation of 60m, is the lowest lying glacier in Southern Norway. Parts of Fjærland lie within Jostedalsbreen National Park. The National Park covers 1230 km² and is characterized by great variation within short distances, from fjords and lowland, to mountains and glaciers. Return to Fjærland and take the boat back to Balestrand. Return to your hotel later afternoon where a 3 course dinner or buffet will be served.

Day 4: Balestrand-Flåm

This morning you will continue your journey towards Flåm. To get to Flåm you will go on the peaceful tour with the express boat taking you through the Sognefjord and the Auerlandfjord.
